

To all our customers and friends,

During the confusion and busy time of the medical issues we are dealing with we wanted to reach out and give you an update of our efforts to deal with and mitigate the problems facing our community. Our Tuesday and Saturday sale days will remain OPEN to supply our customers a venue to obtain necessary and required goods and services and our families the opportunity to buy necessary supplies and food items. Locally grown and fresh produce is a necessity during this trying time. We have taken precaution to serve our customers and vendors such as providing additional hand washing stations, wider walkways to provide space between shoppers in an effort to increase social distancing, posted safety and reminders of safe practices for optimizing health precautions and increased our attention to sanitation around our eating areas and restroom facilities.

We take our mission very seriously and we ask you to observe best practices of washing hands frequently, avoiding unnecessary contact with others, (including shaking hands), covering your mouth when coughing or sneezing, and safely assisting those who need help obtaining goods or services and assistance in their efforts to follow common sense health and sanitation standards discussed.

Please follow all CDC recommendations and if you feel ill; please self-quarantine at home and maintain minimal contact with others.

Please consider consolidation of your family needs and shop for your family and those that cannot attend a market themselves.

With these efforts and common goals of social distancing, proper sanitation, and helping each other we will soon be back to normal for the spring and summer seasons.

Thank you for your cooperation.
